“ My friend you will be missed by all. We at The Pantry appreciate all the vol. work you did here as well. I remember when I first ran into you in 1987 at The Ecorse meeting, we shared a lot of good times together over the years. God sure has a full house now with you the old man and Bernard up there. Remember you will always be alive as long as you are in our memories.

“ I will always remember the first time Dad brought me to Thanksgiving dinner. Oh dear there was so much food! I was afraid to reach for any of it. He kept on nudging me to eat, eat, and eat! Then the biscuits and gravy! I'm stuffed thinking about it. But it was the first time I seen him in his own element, other than the alano club, and met the rest of the family. We sat at the long table and people were coming and going (stopping in to eat) and Ma was making lots of turkeys and all you's girls were in the kitchen bring out dish after dish of mashed potatoes, stuffing, cranberry sauce, and oh dear, let's not forget his pies! LOL He loved his pies! But to see him make the gravy was the most fondest memory I have. He showed an example to men not to be afraid to join their wives in the kitchen. He gave me examples on how I should expect to be treated by the way he treated Ma. He showed me how a father should be by the way he treated me. All those things were 'new' to me, and I didn't know how to accept it. Any of it. It took 3 more years of being around it until I finally caught the jist of what it was all about. "Love and Respect". Doing for others what you want done for you. Love those who don't love themselves because they've never had that kind of love before. To appreciate all the bad in my lifetime because it'll only make the good so much more. I could go on and on...Joe (Dad)....will be so so so so sorely missed.

In 1998 I was hopeless. That man picked me up off a stool ,unsolicited and took me to my first meeting. I did all of my 12 with him. He called me his pigeon. I am alive today because he, as a total stranger, simply cared.
